Midway Chatter

The 4-H Steer Sale conducted by Bowling Stock Yard averaged over $10 a hundredweight above market price this year. The average was $68.65 compared to a top at Bowling Stock Yards Wednesday of $58.

The average had to be one of the highest ever if not the highest, although the top price was below the record.

Buyers of the grand champion steer were Ward's Cardinal Market and Eyerman & Co. George Bowling, owner of Eyerman, announced the steer will be divided with the loins going to Ward's and the roasts will be donated to the annual 4-H Barbecue.

The Bowling family is donating the roasts from the grand champion steer to show their appreciation to the many people and 4-Hers who have contributed to the coronary care unit of Berger Hospital.

The hog and sheep sale will be held tonight by Bowlings. Roy Mason is the auctioneer and Jim Ford the ringman for the 4-H auctions.

The grandstand is expected to be filled to capacity tonight for the demolition derby, the final event of the 1973 fair. Except for Tuesday, when it rained all afternoon, attendance at the fair has been excellent.

The grand champion lamb of the Fair was shown by Rae Fenstermaker. Owner of the reserve champion is Joe Trapp. Both Rae and Joe are Westfall High School products.

Minimum Wage Bill In House; Veto Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican opponents of a bill to raise the minimum wage to $2.20 an hour predict President Nixon will veto the measure despite support for it from Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan.

The veto threat has prompted House political strategists to reconsider whether to vote on the measure today or wait until September when the House returns after a month-long recess.

The compromise bill passed the Senate 62 to 28 Thursday. If the House passed the bill today, a veto would come during the recess and Congress would have no opportunity to override.

The House also gave overwhelming approval to the Alaska oil pipeline, passing 356 to 60 a measure that would permit its construction. The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference to iron out differences between versions of the bill approved by the two chambers.

In other action, the House Rules Committee decided 9 to 6 to put off until Sept. 5 a vote on Senate-passed amendments that would end the price freeze on beef and require the President to set up a mandatory fuel allocation system. The amendments were on a bill, already passed by the House, that would require copies of coins to be labeled as copies.

The minimum-wage bill was hammered out by Senate-House conferees after the two houses had approved slightly differing versions.

During Thursday's House debate Republican opponents predicted Nixon would veto the bill as inflationary.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Brennan promised he would ask Nixon to sign the measure.

The bill raises the minimum wage and extends it to an estimated seven million workers. Another 47 million workers already are under its provisions.

The measure would extend minimum wage and overtime to full-time domestics, including babysitters. Live-in domestics would receive the minimum but not overtime.

The bill raises the $1.60 hourly minimum for most nonfarm workers to $2 on Oct. 1, then to $2.20 next July 1. Workers first covered in 1966 or under the bill would get an increase from $1.60 to $1.80 on Oct. 1, to $2 next July 1, and $2.20 July 1, 1975.

Base Closings Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials reported the possibility of a new round of base closings amid a growing feud with Congress over severe defense cuts.

This could be a Pentagon signal that congressmen might feel the effects of their actions in the loss of military installations, and civilian jobs back home.

Sources indicated consideration of possible new shutdowns is in its early stages and involves examination of lists of bases that are of marginal value to the armed services.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, in office only about a month, opened fire on congressional budget trimmers Wednesday. He accused them of "folies" in voting drastic cutbacks in military manpower, arms aid to South Vietnam and Laos, and other programs.

Thursday, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., returned Schlesinger's fire in a speech advising the new Pentagon chief "to extract his foot from his mouth."

McIntyre, a veteran member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, spoke of "Pentagon follies" as primarily responsible for the diminishing support for the defense effort. He accused the Pentagon of advancing "ill-conceived ... extravagant ... redundant programs."

The defense budget has been under its heaviest attack in years in both the House and Senate, with many key weapons projects feeling the bite.

The most immediate cause of concern to top Pentagon civilian and military officials is the Senate Armed Services vote to hack 156,000 men from the armed services over the coming year. This would bring the total down to 2,076,800 men, smallest in nearly a quarter of a century.

If this cut is sustained, Pentagon officials say the combat readiness of the forces will be seriously endangered.

In one private conference this week, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, chief of Naval operations, reportedly said that the projected 9 per cent cut in the size of the Navy might mean laying up 45 ships and shutting down possibly eight major installations, including one shipyard.

Some Army officials suggested that a comparable 9 per cent reduction in its manpower might lead to elimination of one of the Army's 13 combat divisions and supporting elements.

Air Force authorities said a 6 per cent slash, as voted by the Senate committee, might translate into a reduction of 25 bomber, fighter and airlift squadrons or 10 major installations.

Of all the services, only the Marines would escape relatively unscathed, with a one per cent reduction in its manpower.

Skylab Rescue Worked Out

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — While launch crews at Cape Kennedy worked around the clock to prepare a rocket for a possible emergency rescue, the Skylab 2 astronauts today continued working in their orbiting laboratory, hopeful of completing a full 59-day mission.

The first attempt to rescue a crew in space might have to be made if there is more deterioration in the Apollo command ship intended to ferry the astronauts back to earth Sept. 25.

The Apollo lost half its rocket steering power Thursday and alarmed officials at first considered bringing Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma home today in the crippled ship, which is docked to the space station.

But they decided the crew could remain aboard after detailed analysis showed the Apollo should retain its capability to bring them home safely at the scheduled end of the mission.

But as a precaution, launch crews at Cape Kennedy were directed to prepare the Skylab 3 rocket and Apollo spaceship for a possible rescue mission if further trouble developed.

"It's no panic situation. But we do think it prudent to keep a rescue operation capability," said Skylab project manager William Schneider.

In Florida, Kennedy Space Center director Walter Kapryan reported more than 1,000 men had immediately swung into a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week operation to get the vehicles ready in case the rescue mission is necessary.

"We are very confident we can do this thing and be ready to launch by Sept. 5 if needed," Kapryan said. That would be more than two months before the planned Nov. 9 launch of the Skylab 3 crew.

"It's a very serious problem," Apollo spacecraft manager Glynn S. Lunney told newsmen soon after the problem was discovered Thursday. "If we did not have a rescue capability, we would be moving in the direction of getting the spacecraft down as rapidly as we could."

Lunney said the main concern was that should the astronauts board the troubled Apollo and try to come home, there is a possibility that the third and fourth thruster systems could fail, leaving the spacemen with no way of steering the craft effectively.

The astronauts resumed medical and scientific experiments and troubleshooting a few minor problems in the space station, orbiting 271 miles high.

They planned today to fire up their earth resources sensors for the first time. A space walk scheduled Saturday by Garriott and Lousma to change telescope film and to erect a new protective sun shade was postponed again, for the fourth time, until new procedures are worked out for undocking the Apollo ship in case of an emergency during the outside excursion.

The new procedures are necessary because of the trouble with Apollo's rocket thrusters. Instead of three operating thrusters, it now only has two.

Three earlier plans for the space walk were scrubbed because of now-cured motion sickness suffered by all three astronauts.

Weather

Sunny and mild today and Saturday. High today low 80s. Clear and cool tonight with low in low 50s. High Saturday in low 80s. Possibility of rain, zero per cent today, tonight and tomorrow.

Backers Fight To Keep Farm Bill Intact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proponents of the farm bill, including big labor, sought to keep the bill from being ambushed in the House today by critics of subsidies for rich farmers or opponents of food stamps for strikers.

Strategy sessions took place throughout the House side of Capitol Hill Thursday in parliamentary maneuvering that could mean life or death for the Senate-passed compromise farm and food stamp bill.

Mindful that any controversial amendment could destroy terms already accepted by the Senate, the bill's defenders were expected to push for only minor changes they feel would be acceptable to the Senate. They hope to cut off possible moves by House critics for major revisions.

"If we can't beat their motion, we're sunk," said Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill. Findley said he wanted to put into the compromise a "loophole-closing provision" aimed at keeping wealthy cotton farmers from leasing or selling part of their allotments as a means of escaping the bill's new $20,000 per farmer annual subsidy limit.

Meanwhile, Rep. William L. Dickinson, R-Ala., was expected to press for his amendment banning food stamps for most strikers. The House originally passed it 213 to 207.

Senate-House conferees broke up in disagreement on the Dickinson amendment after resolving 110 other points of conflict between the earlier versions of separate Senate and House farm bills.

The four-year compromise bill would change the computation of cotton and grain price supports to a "target price" concept. This would remain at a constant $2.05 a bushel for wheat, $1.38 a bushel for corn and 38 cents a pound for cotton during 1974 and 1975.

Rains, Flooding Kills 7 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy runoff threatened more flash flooding in the Northeast today following torrential rains that left at least seven dead, snarled traffic and forced hundreds to evacuate their homes.

Flash-flood warnings were posted for New England and the southern Rockies. Local flooding Thursday affected parts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New England.

Nine inches of rain left six persons dead and several missing, millions of dollars of damage and snarled traffic in New Jersey Thursday. A state of emergency was declared as flood waters rose 10 feet and forced hundreds to evacuate their homes.

A traffic accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike claimed the life of one motorist during the storm. Norristown in southeastern Pennsylvania was hit with two waves of torrential rains Thursday which caused severe flooding, evacuations, road closings and interruption of utility service. Flash floods also plagued sections of the Philadelphia area.

In New York City, 2.5 inches of rain knocked out thousands of Manhattan telephone lines, snarled subways and delayed trains and automobile traffic.

A heat wave remained over the Plateau and northwestern Plains while the cool air which fanned the Midwest began to weaken.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 46 at Marquette, Mich., to 91 at Phoenix, Ariz.

Kidnapers Ask Millions For Getty

ROME (AP) — Kidnapers are demanding a $17 million ransom for J. Paul Getty III, 16-year-old grandson of the American oil billionaire, a family lawyer disclosed today.

But he said the youth's parents can't pay that much, his grandfather won't, and the kidnapers have rejected a counteroffer.

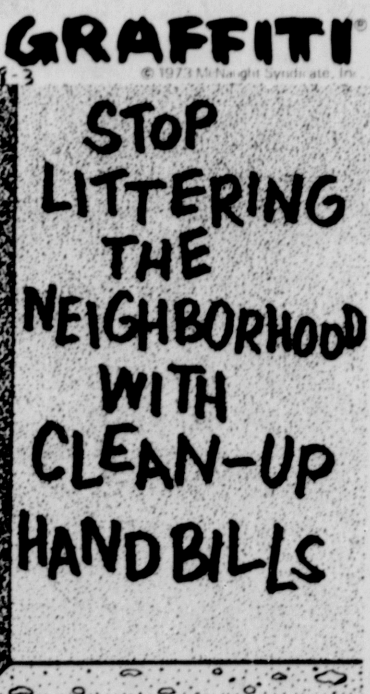

"His mother is desperate," said the lawyer, Giovanni Iacovoni. "The grandfather doesn't want to pay a penny and she must depend only on her own money and that of her ex-husband, which is limited."

The 80-year-old oil magnate, who lives in Britain, said last week that if he ransomed one of his 15 grandchildren, he'd end up having to ransom the other 14.

There was no comment from the boy's father, who lives in London.

Iacovoni declined to say how the contact with the parents was made and refused to reveal the counter-offer. But the Italian press, quoting friends of the family, said it was about $430,000 and the kidnapers dismissed this as "paltry."

The lawyer's statement was the first official report of a ransom figure since young Getty, called the "golden hippie" by the Italian press, disappeared in Rome more than three weeks ago.

Orient Church Vandalized

Vandalism at the Orient United Methodist Church, Orient, was reported at 8:40 a.m. yesterday to the Pickaway County Sheriffs department by the caretaker, James Sealock.

Nothing was taken, according to the caretaker, but he advised investigating Deputy Sheriff Warren G. Straley that teenagers had made the yard and steps a meeting place and had not only damaged the windows but littered the yard. This had taken place over a period of several months.

According to the report of Deputy Straley he too found the yard littered with beer cans, pop cans, potato chip and candy wrappers. The caretaker cleans the yard only to find it littered a few days later.

Three windows have been broken, most of the destruction with a BB gun. Damage was reported at $12 for two colored windows and $35 for large half circled colored glass.

Chair Of Private Enterprise Attacks 'Economic Illiteracy'

ATLANTA, Ga (AP) — With consumerism and the shrinking dollar baffling most Americans, Georgia State University's Chair of Private Enterprise is quietly waging war on "economic illiteracy."

Inflation, export quotas, Phase 4 and fiscal policy often are meaningless words to many until they shop at a supermarket where the prices are high and the stocks low.

"Most students do not understand how the American economy works," said Dr. Michael H. Mescon, the young professor who occupies the chair. "The private enterprise system has been very, very poorly merchandized," he said in an interview.

The concept of the chair, the first of its kind, was established 10 years ago. It has served as a model for four others at Alabama's Samford, Texas Christian, East Carolina and Akron universities.

While most academic chairs are occupied by educators who only teach and write, Georgia State's reinstructs economics teachers on today's economy through workshops, seminars and lectures.

The chair not only is devoted to private enterprise but is financed by it. More than 200 individuals and corporations in the Atlanta area and the Southeast support it, usually with modest amounts.

The antipathy of some students toward big business is the result of the failure of business to sell and inform young people on the basic precepts which undergird American life, Mescon says.

"I like profit. I like the sound of it, I like the spelling of it," he said. "To me, profit represents to business what bread and water are to the individual. Without them, you die. Without profit, business can't survive."

'Farm Bloc' Covers Wide Range

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the catch-phrases in descriptions of the factions within Congress is "the farm bloc" of "farm-belt congressmen."

What it may mean depends on the context and, often, the crop in question. On those occasions, "grain-producing states" or "citrus states" or "dairy belt" might be more accurate descriptions.

Other means exist to delineate this "farm bloc"-lists of members of Congress who are farmers by previous occupation, hold proprietary farm or ranch interests or have significant campaign support from farm organizations, for example.

Another way is on the basis of income from farming by states.

Virtually all states have some farming interests, with Rhode Island and Alaska farmers producing the least gross income nationally.

But solely on the basis of gross farm-marketing income, before government payments from more than a dozen programs, these were the top 10 farm states last year, in descending order: California, Iowa, Texas, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin, Indiana.

Government payments change the standings. For example, North Dakota, 26th last year in terms of income, was sixth in terms of government payments; Mississippi, 22nd in income, 10th in government payments.

California, the richest farm state, and Wisconsin were knocked out of the top 10 when it included government farm-support payments.

With the payments considered, Colorado — 18th in payments and 11th in market income — knocked Wisconsin off the top 10, and Indiana moved up one into ninth.

The top four and Indiana have maintained their positions this decade, in the marketing column and, except for Colorado's entry last year, in the final totals, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota regularly run a statistical cat-and-mouse race.

Texas has led the last three years in government payments, followed last year by Iowa, Kansas, Illinois, Nebraska, North Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri, Indiana and Mississippi.

The government's farm programs' payments are totalled up at the Agriculture Department at the end of

Multi-County Burglary Ring Brings Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Franklin County Prosecutor George Smith said Thursday a special grand jury has returned more than 140 indictments against 25 persons in connection with a multi-county burglary ring.

Smith said the indictments were being processed and will be served by Aug. 13.

Crimes listed in the indictments include burglary, larceny, receiving stolen goods and auto theft.

Police have gone to several Ohio cities during the course of the investigation and have been checking into burglary reports dating back five years.

The nine-member grand jury began hearing testimony July 22.

Tellers Of Tales

Somerset Maugham was a prolific writer and his works were read widely. But he was content to call himself simply a "teller of tales."

Story-telling is an ancient and honorable calling. It is an achievement to entertain people, to amuse them, to make them sad or happy or reflective, to show them something of themselves and their fellow beings.

A story teller without many stories or an audience is not a success, no matter how fine one or more of his tales may be. Are there any pure story tellers left?

Literature today is suffering from a surfeit of authors who want to deliver a message. But surely there will always be need of those who simply have a tale to tell.

Pumpkin Papers

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

On August 3, 1948, Whittaker Chambers told a Congressional committee that Alger Hiss, who had been one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's advisers at the Yalta Conference, had allegedly been a member of a Communist underground in the State Department prior to World War II. Among the congressmen who believed Chambers — "Uncle Whit," as he called him — was Richard M. Nixon. With the help of Bert Andrews of the New York Herald-Tribune, Representative Nixon pushed the case that led to Hiss's incarceration for perjury. Chambers' famous "Pumpkin Papers" — the microfilm of State Department documents that sustained his case — helped nail Hiss's hide to the wall.

The whole thing is ironic. Now Nixon himself is the indirect object of a Congressional investigation. Like Chambers, he has his own "Pumpkin Papers," the tapes of those White House conversations that may possibly reveal much about Watergate and the subsequent cover-up. But this time the Pumpkin Papers may boomerang against their possessor.

Alger Hiss, who is still around, obviously has hopes that if Nixon is discredited by the White House tapes, it will create a most favorable atmosphere for bringing credibility to the claim that Chambers preperated a gigantic fraud back in 1948. At least one book has been written to prove that Chambers was a sinister hoaxster, and others are said to be in the works. Hiss himself has been writing opposite-the-editorial page material for the New York Times, claiming innocence of the charges that he passed secret papers to the Communists in the Thirties.

Naturally, if the 25-year-old verdict in the Hiss-Chambers case were to be overturned, it would deal Richard Nixon a most grievous wound. It would prove that the issue which first vaulted a young California Congressman to a prominence that led to two terms in the White House was a blatant phony.

Hiss is evidently poised to make a good try to prove that he was framed by such ugly devices as "forgery by typewriter." I have no way of knowing whether you could actually forge a typed document by tinkering with a typewriter's keys, but the effort to show that Whittaker Chambers was a Dostoevskyan frame-up artist must fall apart on Chamber's own character.

Isaac Don Levine, who persuaded Chambers to go to Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle in September of 1938 to tell what he knew of Soviet espionage in Washington, knew Chambers as well as anybody knew him. In his recent memoirs, "Eyewitness to History," Levine offers a most vivid and circumstantial portrayal of Chambers as a troubled and tender man who tried to warn the U.S. government of dangerous spy activity in the State Department without, however, seriously incriminating Alger Hiss or any other friend. Chambers was always the most reluctant of witnesses.

I can testify to this from my own experience. I happened to be in Chambers' office at Time, Inc., in 1948 when a batch of afternoon newspapers including the New York Sun was brought to his desk. On the front page of the Sun a story by Edward Naylor, as I remember it, urged the House Committee on Un-American Activities to subpoena a prominent editor of a news magazine to tell what he knew about Soviet infiltration in Washington. Chambers' own underground career, I made light of it. "You don't understand," said Whit Chambers, looking down the hall to editor Tom Matthews' office. "They don't like informers around here." It was the reluctant witness again.

The point is that Chambers had no desire to be cast in the role of the professional anti-Communist. He was dragged to the witness stand. He had made a new double career for himself since his Communist courier days, splitting his time between writing for Time and running a big dairy farm in Maryland. His children were growing up in what he considered a healthy rural atmosphere, knowing nothing of the days when their father, pursued by Communists, had to sleep with a gun at his side. Chambers wanted "out" on the whole Communist business, even out on a role as an "anti."

The forthcoming pro-Hiss books will have to produce malevolence that obviously was never there. Moreover, how could a man who had to produce long articles for Time and Life — in addition to other taxing editorial chores and simultaneously take care of a big herd of cows — have had the energy to plot the most intricate frame-up in history?

I think Nixon is safe enough from the charge of having ridden a fame and the White House on a phony issue. But this does not mean that his own "Pumpkin Papers" will be as good as those hidden in the pumpkin on Chambers' Maryland farm. There is a distinct possibility that Richard Nixon has framed himself.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is the greatest producer in the theater of the real.

Its productions are endless. The past has begun to play an important role in the life of a child by the time he is 5 ("Tell me again what I was like when I was young, Mama"), and after he is middle-aged it will may play the dominant role.

It is doubtful whether any human being after the age of 21 spends an hour of his waking life without some retrospect, without at least a momentary flashback into memory. Unlike the camera, which has some limitations of time and space, memory can instantly and hardly without effort return the human mind's eye back into any significant scene or place of his existence.

And as we grow older, and our prospects grow dimmer, we depend more upon the productions of memory for our spiritual nourishment.

There are a lot of vitamins in your own memory if you can look back and remember when—

A teen-age child would almost as soon think of committing hari-kiri as calling his father or mother by their first names. Neither parents nor children deplored the existence of a generation gap; both found it rather useful.

To anyone growing up in the Midwest, the Mississippi River was a greater symbol of romance and adventure than any ocean.

Politicians and political philosophers thought that if we ever got into any war in the Far East, it certainly wouldn't be with any country smaller than China.

Yul Brynner had hair.

Clara Bow, one of the earliest of many movie stars to emerge from Brooklyn, was known as "The It Girl."

During the prohibition era in Manhattan the house of Helen Morgan, "the singing speakeasy operator," was almost as well known as the House of Morgan run by J.P., the banker titan.

Many medical specialists were publicly hopeful that the problem of cancer would be solved by 1950 at the latest.

Rocket pioneers who predicted that man would sometime send a space missile to the moon were dismissed as harmless, publicity-seeking cranks.

The most popular lines high school kids wrote in each other's graduation books were: "Leaves may wither, flowers may die, friends may forget thee, but ne'er shall I."

Those were the days—remember?

Racketeering Eyed In Pennsylvania

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Organized crime is infiltrating organized labor in western Pennsylvania, and the result is "a real and growing danger," says the head of the federal government's organized crime strike force here.

Milton J. Carp, commenting in an address Wednesday, said his office has launched a number of investigations into alleged racketeering in organized labor in western Pennsylvania.

MISSING PERSONS BUREAU

"I'm really getting good at this job. I think I've finally found myself."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I get attacks of dizziness, especially when I suddenly lie down or sit up. I am 70 years old.

My doctor says that at my age this is not unusual and that the cause is arteriosclerosis.

Can anything be done about this or must I just learn to live with it? I worry that it will get worse.

Mr. H.F., Nev.

Dear Mr. F.:

Most people in your age group have some narrowing of the blood vessels that lead from the heart, through the neck, and go to the brain.

In addition to arteriosclerosis, there is a loss of elasticity of the blood vessels. The result is that any sudden change of position momentarily deprives the brain of sufficient blood and oxygen.

A fleeting moment of imbalance follows.

When this is the cause of the sensation you describe, patients are advised to avoid sudden rapid changes of position. When they sit up from a lying-down position, they are told to sit up slowly, and thus allow the blood vessels to the brain to adjust gradually to the new change of position.

It is now possible to study, with a great deal of accuracy, the circulation of the blood in the brain.

Some of the most ingenious discoveries in the last decade revolve about biochemical studies that pinpoint the exact blood vessels in the brain responsible for poor circulation.

As new information accrues, newer methods for dilating the blood vessels inevitably follow.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite price restraints, costly safety controls, a high incidence of recalls and the imminence of antipollution devices, the automotive industry is running up records like an odometer rolls up mileage.

Reports from each of the country's four major manufacturers are as loaded with superlatives as some of the new car advertisements.

In the second quarter, for example, General Motors secured its position as the world's largest manufacturer with record sales of $9.6 billion, record high employment of 813,000, and record payrolls of $2.6 billion.

About the only disappointment in the GM report was a $20 million decline in profits from the first quarter. Nevertheless, the $797 million of net income was $74 million above the year-earlier period.

Ford reported second-quarter sales and earnings higher than ever before, more than $100 million higher than in the same period of 1972. The figures: sales $6.27 billion, earnings $394.2 million.

Chrysler reported sales and earnings higher than in any previous second quarter. Sales jumped to $3.18 billion, and net income rose $40.2 million to $108.6 million.

American Motors, which had all but sputtered to a stop a few years ago, responded to the vigorous market with April-May-June sales of $472 million, about $96 million more than a year ago. Earnings more than doubled to $16.9 million.

Offsetting the imports was a stronger showing abroad by U.S. manufacturers. GM, for example, reported "unprecedented worldwide sales and record profits from overseas operations."

Certainly, you must continue to be under constant observation so that recommendations can be made to you to keep you in the most comfortable state possible.

In far more advanced cases, brilliant surgical methods are now used to open clogged arteries in the neck.

Transplantation of blood vessels is successfully performed in specially chosen cases.

You must not live with the shadow of fear hanging over you. This can often be more destructive than the mild condition you apparently have.

When smog and pollution hang heavy over our city I feel depressed and actually cannot perform a day's work.

Of course I am told by my friends that this is psychological.

I really feel that it is not. Opinion?

Miss R.E., Ind.

Dear Miss E.:

Loving friends make poor medical and psychological advisors. The easiest explanation for conditions that are not understood by "armchair doctors" is the obvious one that "it's all in the mind."

Actually, a great deal of information is now being accumulated that points to a definite relationship between mental depression and high levels of pollution.

Only recently, the American Chemical Society released such a report, showing that high levels of hydrogen sulfide in the air can cause anxiety, blurring of the vision, mental depression, and dizziness.

The big question now is how long the boom can continue. More than a few analysts of the automotive industry believe that today's records are, to some extent, at the expense of tomorrow's business.

Surveys suggests that this is just what is happening. Convinced that future prices will be higher, and the product less efficient, some buyers are in effect buying tomorrow's car now.

If car makers are worried about this they don't show it. Early compilations suggest that the third quarter will be another record breaker, and that strong sales might continue well into 1974.

But later in 1974 the car makers must contend with the reality of pollution control standards. It is at this point that buyers might balk, waiting for the next guy to make a test run before committing themselves.

There still are a few question marks about these forecasts of many vigorous months to come. First is the labor situation, with contract talks now under way at GM. And then there is the question of gasoline availability.

Nixon Housing Costs Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Future federal expenditures on security work for President Nixon's personal residences would require congressional approval under a measure approved by the House Wednesday.

The provision was included in a $4.2 billion funding bill for the White House, Postal Service, Treasury Department and several other executive agencies.

It passed the House by voice vote and now goes to the Senate.

Meanwhile, Rep. John H. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., predicted that a "comprehensive report" on publicly funded improvements at Nixon's homes in Florida and California will be made public within 10 days.

Black Lung Case Shift Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government should retain permanent jurisdiction over the coal miners' black lung benefits program rather than turning it over to the states, United Mine Workers President Arnold told a House subcommittee Thursday.

Present federal black lung compensation legislation calls for benefits to become the responsibility of the states as of January 1.

Miller, in remarks prepared for delivery at a hearing of the House General Subcommittee on Labor, said turning over the program to state workmen's compensation offices would be "a nightmare loaded at every turn with difficulty for the claimant."

Miss Donna Mae Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Berry of Ashville, became the bride of Clarence Ray Noecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Noecker, Route 1, Ashville, 3:30 p.m. July 1st. in St. Paul Lutheran Church of Ashville.

The Rev. H.L. Strauch officiated the double ring ceremony before the altar enhanced with vases of white daisy pompons, carnations and gladiolus. Baskets with matching arrangements were placed on the steps leading to the altar. Organist, Mrs. Marjorie Pickering, played a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony. Mrs. James Kibby sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride selected for her wedding an embroidered silk organza gown over candlelight satin. The high waisted fitted bodice featured long full sleeves and U-shaped neckline with shaped inset topping a gathered floor length skirt. Her long train of illusion flowed softly into cathedral length and she carried a single white rose. Her only jewelry was a single pearl necklace and earrings.

Miss Judy Berry served her sister as maid of honor. Mrs. John Murray, college roommate of the bride, was matron of honor. They were dressed alike in blue floral chiffon formal length gowns with blue velvet sashes with streamers down the back, round necklines, short sleeves and softly gathered skirts. They carried bouquets of daisies and carnations.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her father and mother. She selected for her wedding a formal length gown of white organza in the A-line silhouette. Beribboned embroidery outlined the Venice lace yoke, high ruffled neckline, cuffed the full sheer sleeves and encircled the crystal pleated hem. The bride's lace trimmed illusion veil, worn as a mantilla, fell softly to cathedral length and she carried a cascading bouquet of white daisies and yellow Sweetheart roses.

Miss Dianne Evans served the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a high waisted, full skirted gown of multi-floral printed organza lined with coral satin, accented by a coral sash which formed a bow at the back of her gown. Her white picture hat was trimmed with coral ribbon and streamers.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Divorcee Took Pillow Talk Seriously

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman who has been deeply involved with a married man for four years. He has children and so have I.

I divorced my husband thinking he would divorce his wife and marry me. I can't honestly say that he promised to divorce his wife, but he said so many things like: "If we were both free, I would marry you in a minute." and: "I have never loved anyone the way I love you." I took it to mean he would divorce his wife and marry me. I was wrong.

My husband never suspected a thing until I made a full confession. Now that he knows the truth he will have nothing to do with me. Was I foolish?

VIRGO
DEAR VIRGO: You were. Your mistake was talking pillow talk seriously. Actually, it's nothing more than a lot of horsefeathers.

DEAR ABBY: I am so angry I want to scream. I'm expecting my first baby after wanting one for five years. I am only six weeks along, so naturally we haven't told anyone yet. Not even our parents.

Yesterday I attended a church luncheon. Afterwards, the chairman stood up and said, "The floral centerpiece is for one of our members who is expecting her first baby after wanting one so long!" Then she looked right at me.

Abby, I must have turned the color of a tomato. Then all the buzzing and chattering started. My mother and mother in law were both there looking surprised and hurt. I was so upset I wanted to run.

Neither my husband nor I told a soul, but yesterday he did bring home a used crib, and somebody must have seen him carry it into the house.

Why do people have to be so nosy? Now it's going to seem like such a long pregnancy. I can just hear them asking me the last two months, "Are YOU still walking around?"

At the bottom of your column it says, "You'll feel better if you get it off your chest." Thanks for listening.

BURNING IN DETROIT
DEAR BURNING: And you'll feel better when you get it off. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I love my inlaws, but they are my problem. My husband and I have two children, 6 and 3. They are the only grandchildren my inlaws have (which is probably why they spoil them the way they do).

My husband travels a lot, and I like to go with him for a few days every few months. This keeps our marriage healthy.

My inlaws beg to keep our children when we're gone, but after the children have been with their grandparents it takes me a week to get them to mind.

My inlaws let the kiddies stay up as late as they want to, and they feed them candy and soft drinks between meals. Also, when I say something, my word is law, and I don't put up with any back-talk. The grandparents never discipline them, and when the kids talk back, they laugh and think it's cute.

I don't want to seem ungrateful, Abby, but I resent my inlaws spoiling all the work I've put into training my children. I have stressed my rules several times, but they don't pay attention to them.

How can I drive my point home without getting them angry with me? If I hired a sitter my inlaws would be terribly hurt.

TOO SOFT
DEAR TOO: Your signature sums up the reason for your problem. Toughen up, and tell your inlaws that either they must follow your rules, or you'll not leave your children with them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STILL WAITING IN EL PASO, TEX.": The Euthanasia Education Council, which provides the Living Will, has been swamped with requests beyond their most optimistic expectations. Please be patient, but be aware that their CORRECT address is: 250 West 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Wholesale Prices Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The steepest monthly decline in wholesale prices in 25 years was recorded in July, the Labor Department said Thursday. It attributed the decline to the Nixon's administration's price freeze and export controls.

The decline in wholesale prices was led by prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds which decreased during July by 4.1 per cent on a seasonally unadjusted basis and 4.6 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Marathon Oil Declares Quarterly Dividend

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A quarterly dividend of 40 cents per share, payable Sept. 10 to shareholders of record Aug. 17, was declared Thursday by Marathon Oil Co. directors.

Directors also announced the election to the board of James N. Land Jr., a member of the management committee of the First Boston Corp. Land succeeds John R. Donnell, who is retiring after 37 years with the company.

The one month decrease in farm prices on an adjusted basis was the biggest decline ever, Labor Department figures show.

The over-all decline in the July wholesale price index was 1.3 per cent, unadjusted, and 1.4 per cent, adjusted. The decrease compared with average increases during the previous six months of 1.7 per cent.

The Labor Department noted its check of wholesale prices for July was made after President Nixon's price freeze went into effect on June 13.

And it noted some commodities for which prices declined, such as soybeans, had come under export restrictions before the July index was compiled.

Two Year Secretarial Technology Degree To Be Offered By OU-L

Ohio University-Lancaster will be offering a two year post-high school program leading to the Associate in Applied Business Degree in Secretarial Technology.

The program is being presented to the Board of Regents for approval. At present time, it is the University's intention to offer courses for this program starting in the Fall Quarter.

The two-year program will prepare students to enter top secretarial positions in business, industry and the professions. The program will be weighted heavily in business administration and much emphasis will be placed on the development of secretarial skills.

The student will have the opportunity to develop abilities in formulating mature judgment and in making decisions which are expected of the secretary.

As planned, the curriculum will require a minimum of 90 quarter hours of credit which will include 45 hours of technical courses, 21 hours of related courses and 21 hours of general education courses. There will be some elective courses to give flexibility to the program.

Proposed courses to be offered this fall quarter, starting Sept. 26, will be: Beginning Shorthand, Beginning Typing.

These, along with other related courses, make it possible for a student to enroll as a full-time student as well as part-time for those working and wanting to take just the above courses only.

Anyone interested in this type of program, please contact the campus by calling 654-6711, extension 27.

Rotary Senior Group Discussed

Requirements for Senior Active, a branch unit for retired or senior Rotarians over age 65, were explained by J. Boyd Stout at the regular Thursday club luncheon.

Members are planning a Rotaryann outing Aug. 23. It will include dinner at Holiday Inn, Chillicothe, after which members will attend the performance of "Tecumseh!"

Bob Burton gave a report on the last visit of Bloodmobile and requested better participation by all members. Ned Harden, Pumpkin Show Vice President, presented Mayor Frank Barnhill an honorary citizenship to the city of Milwaukee, Wis., from that city's mayor. Harden and Miss Pumpkin Show Kathy Uland were special guests at a festival held in Milwaukee last week.

Rotary guests Thursday were Harry Blank, John Hardin and Dr. Bill Rickey.

Woman Receives Calls About Traffic Tickets

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Rose Alexander has been getting a few more calls than usual since police in nearby Newark began using a new batch of traffic tickets early this week.

Ten thousand tickets were printed with the wrong telephone number, Miss Alexander said she's found some new friends but has also talked to a lot of irate people and one drunk who refused to hang up.

"I don't mind being popular, but this is ridiculous," said Miss Alexander, who is single.

MRS. JOHN SABINE, PHONE 983-2086

The annual Cook Reunion will be held at the Ashville Community Park Shelter House on Sunday. The carry-in dinner will be served at 12:30 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish and table service.

Mrs. Hattie Rife would like to thank all of her relatives and friends for the many lovely cards, flowers and gifts she received for her 91st birthday July 26.

John Moss, formerly of Ashville, is a patient in Berger Hospital, Circleville. He is in room 122.

The Church Council of First English Lutheran Church will meet on Tuesday at 7:30 at the church.

Dr. and Mrs. Chester Rockey, 309 E. Main St., celebrated their 62nd Wedding Anniversary on Aug. 1.

Mrs. Pearl Cook arrived by plane Saturday night from Portland, Ore. She will be visiting relatives around Ashville for the next two weeks and will be here for the Cook Reunion on Aug. 5. She is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cook and Stephen.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wilson and daughters have returned home after vacationing in Texas. While there they were guests of Mrs. Wilson's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Marquis.

The class of 1939 of Ashville-Harrison High School held their annual reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Cook and Stephen on July 29. A potluck dinner was enjoyed by all at 1 o'clock.

Next year the class will make a trip to Elkhart, Ind. on July 20 to visit at the home of Helen Kibbee Craft. They will hold their potluck on Saturday evening and return home on Sunday.

Members of the class present were Buss Hedges, Joe Vause, Virgie Six Vause, "Wimpy" Walden, Paul Nance, Helen Kibbee Craft, Kate Thompson Lemon and Dorothy Reid Cook.

Others present were Mrs. Dorothy Courtright, Don and Joe, Mrs. Ada Walden and Pat, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Welsh, Steve, Russell, Paula, Treva and Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. James Franks, Tami, Jami and Jimmie, Jack Lemon, Amy Patrick, Mr. Steve Cook and Stephen.

Mr. and Mrs. David Brindle of Newport News, Va., visited last week with Mrs. Brindle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Cline.

Members of the Ruth Circle of the First English Lutheran Church will have a Family Picnic on August 12 at 6 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Roger Hedges.

Billy and Gina Carl of South Bloomfield recently visited in Mt. Union, Pa., with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Carl. While there they toured and camped in the Pennsylvania Dutch Country and visited the Dutch Wonderland.

On Tuesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Gaylon Pobst, daughter Brenda and Mrs. Helen Emerine and John, Milt and Ralph accompanied Carlos Giron to Port Columbus where he started his journey home to Guatemala, Central America.

Carlos had mixed feelings about leaving Ashville, U.S.A. He was sorry to leave the Pobst family with whom he had made his home the past ten months, but happy to be going home to see his own family.

He could speak no English when he arrived here but now speaks it fluently. Carlos was a member of this years Teays Valley Senior Class. He enjoyed going to school here very much. It was quite different from the 2000 pupil, all boys school that he had gone to in Guatemala.

He also enjoyed small town living. His home is in Guatemala City, the capital and largest city in the country. This summer Carlos learned to water ski, which he enjoyed a lot and he also went on many camping trips with the Pobst family.

For the Pobsts' his departure was sad because he had become very much a part of their family. But they recommend the Exchange program as a very rewarding experience.

On July 29 the Pobst family gave a surprise going-away party for Carlos. Those enjoying the evening were, Pam Ramey, Rachel Swank, Milt and Ralph Emerine, Dave Bullock, Beth Beavers, David Gibson, Wilson Ett, Wade Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Blankenship, Shelley and Steve, Francie Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Chaffin, Mrs. Cy Stickel, Mrs. Helen Emerine, Diana and Brenda Pobst and the honored guest.

Carlos received many going-away gifts and momentos from his friends. In January Carlos will enter the University of San Carlos where he will be an engineering student.

Once again the members of the Ashville Community Club royally entertained all those who had helped in any way with the Fourth of July Celebration this year.

A heavy-laden buffet table greeted all of the guests as they entered the enclosed shelter house in the Community Park Monday evening. Assorted hor d'ourves, breads, potato salad, many, many cold cuts and cheeses, sliced tomatoes, relishes of every kind, bratwurst, smoked sausages and kraut, a variety of fresh fruit and soft drinks were on the menu.

Following the dinner the present Miss Fourth of July, Susie Ervin, was introduced by George Myers. Susie then introduced the members of her court, Debbie Gilbert and Pam Route. The families of each girl were also recognized. Bingo was then enjoyed by all those present and many, many prizes given to the lucky winners.

A grand time was had by all, thanks to the Community Club hosts.

The Emergency Squad of the Harrison Township Fire Department recently made the following runs:

July 21-took Ralph Woolever of Route 1, Ashville, to the emergency room of Berger Hospital, suffering from chest pains;

Car Occupants Sought From Morning Crash

Circleville Highway Patrol is searching for at least two persons, one or both possibly injured, who left the scene of an accident today on foot.

The collision caused minor injuries to a Columbus family of three and involved two cars and a tractor-trailer rig.

Ptl. Charles Cotton is continuing his investigation to locate the occupants of a car which caused a collision at 2:45 this morning on Route 23 in the area of the rest stop near Shepherd Road.

Injuries of 53-year-old Herbert Keeton, his wife Jean, 43, and six-year-old son Michael, were limited to scratches and bruises. They did not require special medical treatment.

Keetons were southbound on Route 23 in the driving lane this morning when a car behind them approached at a high rate of speed, Ptl. Cotton reports. The second car did not slow or change lanes and struck the rear of the Keeton auto, knocking it 783 feet down the roadway. The family's car was demolished.

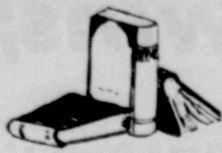

The second car was struck in the side by a tractor-trailer rig driven by Eugene Coleman, 31, of Route 1, Dundas. Coleman had swerved left to avoid striking the car, but the end of his trailer caught it, and soon it in a circle and sent it into a guardrail. It was also demolished.

Coleman was not injured and his truck, owned by the McNichols Transport Co., was not seriously damaged.

As the second car struck the guardrail, at least two men jumped from it and ran up Shepherd Road and escaped in the trailer court. They have not yet been found.

The Highway Patrol officer notes the car they were driving had not been reported stolen. He determined that at least one of the unknown passengers was injured, judging from the blood found in the wreckage of the vehicle.

Beer cans found in the auto indicate the occupants might have been drinking, the investigating officer said.

On Books And Activities At The Library

"All Indians are stoic, stolid and devoid of humor." With this truism, Robert Easton, one of the original radio "Quiz Kids," begins an article on "Humor of the American Indian." Easton's article is in "The American Indian," a collection of articles which first appeared in "Mankind Magazine." Raymond Locke has compiled and edited these selected readings. If you have seen the outdoor drama, "Tecumseh," you will want to read Walter Jarrett's essay on this leader who attempted to organize the Indians into a fighting force. Other articles in this book concern the removal of the Cherokee, the legend of the White God prevalent among the pre-Columbian Indians, and "Is Geronimo Alive and Well in the South Vietnamese Highlands?"

"The First Americans," latest in the Time Life Emergence of Man Series, relates the story of man's settlement of pre-historic North America. The Los Angeles man is the earliest human fossil as yet unearthed on the North American continent. This fossil dates back to about 21,600 B. C. There are chapters on the farmers of the Southwest, the hunters and conquerors of the far-north, and the Mound builders. This volume is well illustrated with excellent photographs and paintings.

Viewers of the outdoor drama, "Tecumseh," might also want to read Alan Eckert's, "The Frontiersman." Both this volume, and his later volume, "The Wilderness Empire" read like novels or an exciting adventure story. "Blue Jacket" by the same author will appeal to young adults.

Publishers have been trying to keep up with reader interest in Indians by publishing many new books on the subject, and reprinting many of the older titles. Frank Wilcox's "Ohio Indian Trails" is the second edition of the 1933-34 limited edition. The new work includes hitherto unpublished paintings and drawings by the author. While no new archeological studies are included, Ohio readers will be interested in the historical aspects of this area's Indians and the lovely reproductions of Mr. Wilcox's watercolors and wash drawings.

Other new books on Indians of today and yesterday include, "The Mystic Warriors of the Plains" by Thomas E. Mails; "Sand in a Whirlwind: The Piate Indian War of 1860" by Ferol Egan; "Custer Died for Your Sins" by Vine Deloria Jr.; "In the Days of Victorio" by Eva Ball; "Of Utmost Good Faith" edited by Vine Deloria, Jr.; "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" by Dee Brown; "Earth Medicine-Earth Foods; Plant Remedies, Drugs, and Natural Foods of 'North American Indians'" by Michael A. Weiner; "American Indian Craft Inspirations" by Janet and Alex D'Amato.

If your interest in Indians has aroused, stop by the library. We have arranged a special display of books about Indians-fiction and non-fiction, their crafts, money, food, and medicine. You owe it to yourself to explore this fascinating subject. Help dispel the many myths and misconceptions attached to the first Americans.

Or try one of the new Gothics. Pamela Hansford Johnson's "The Holiday Friend" is the story of Gavin and Hannah Eastwood and their twelve year old son. They embark on a carefree holiday which ends in disaster.

"The Woman From the Glen" by Chloe Gartner has a historical setting. Jennie and her twin brother take up the cause of Bonnie Prince Charlie, joining the Highland Clans marching on Culloden. Molly Costain Haycraft records the dilemma of a young countess in "Countess Carrots." The dilemma occurs when a domineering grandmother tries to run her life.

Scandal and intrigue erupt in Victorian England when a packet of love letters meant for a dying gentleman are erroneously delivered to his wife. Read about it in "Dear Laura" by Jean Stubbs.

Did you like "The Other" by Thomas Tryon? Then you will want to read "Harvest Home," Tryon's newest book. A young commercial artist, his wife and daughter abandon New York City for the supposed serenity of a remote New England village. They find themselves living in a macabre world of fertility rites and blood sacrifice.

In John Gallahue's "The Jesuit" an urgent telegram requesting the reassignment of Ulanov from Maryland to Rome, plunges the young Jesuit into danger and intrigue.

Jesse Stuart fans will be interested in a new book by his daughter, Jane. Yellowhawk is the story of Rhoda Miller, a young teacher. In the book she reflects upon her experiences and life at a small elementary school in Kentucky.

"Return the Innocent Earth" is by Wilma Dykeman, author of "The Tall Woman" and "The Far Family." It is the story of a canning family—the locale, Southern Appalachia.

Court Business Slightly Off

In July, business of the Common Pleas Court was slightly off its normal activity.

Fifty-one new cases were filed, but only 42 were terminated during the 31 day period.

Of the new cases placed on the docket, eight were suits for damages stemming from personal injury; 14 stemmed from criminal charges; 23 were filed by couples seeking dissolution of their marital state and six others were unclassified.

No jury trials terminated the 42 cases cleared from the docket. The majority of the cases, 35, were either dismissed or decided by default or guilty pleas.

Seven personal injury cases were cleared, along with 11 criminal cases, 21 divorce or alimony cases and three others.

Two hundred fifty-two cases remained on the docket as of July 31.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

If records weren't made to be broken, there wouldn't be any need to keep a record of these great moments of achievement.

The reason for keeping records is not only to give the performer his just dues and recognition but to give the next guy something to shoot at. It makes for competition and that is the name of the game.

One of the greatest records in sports is about to be broken — Immortal Babe Ruth's mark of 714 home runs — but that is what the mark is for.

The slender slammer, Hank Aaron, is about to surpass the "Great Ones" effort. Maybe not this season but — barring a miracle — it will certainly be eclipsed next year.

Some people—we'll not give them the honor of being called sport fans — have taken exception to Aaron's ability and made him feel that he is committing a crime. He has been harassed, booed and even had his life threatened for doing something that is all part of the game. This is a fine ball player and a credit to the game. Fortunately, the vast majority of the fans are pulling for him and cheering him on in his effort to reach the pinnacle of his profession.

When Aaron sends number 715 zooming into the seats, he will be adding to his own greatness — not detracting anything from the Babe. Ruth has made his own mark in baseball and no matter what happens he will always be the "Great Bambino" and remain the idol of fans everywhere.

No one will ever replace the Babe in the hearts of baseball fans and he will always be the one who saved baseball after the infamous Black Sox scandal. The Babe stepped in at a time when baseball had sunk to its lowest level and sent it back out of the darkness into the sunshine. He will remain the King of Swat and Yankee Stadium will always be the "House that Ruth Built."

So when Hank gets his pitch and propels number 715 into the record book, you can bet that the Babe will be looking down from his spot on high. He'll have that big boyish grin on his face as he says "you did a fine job, kid, and I'm proud of you". That's the way the Babe was and always will be.

Our "fearless" forecast — If Weiskopf and Nicklaus decide to play each other in the Westchester Golf Classic, Arnie and his Army could take over the kingdom.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

A's Lose To Twins; Drop To 2nd

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Have the Oakland A's become the Oakland Avides?

"I guess we're like Avid; we'll have to try harder," Manager Dick Williams said after the world champion A's lost to Minnesota 6-3 Thursday night and became No. 2 in the American League's West Division, one game behind the Kansas City Royals, who beat Chicago 3-1.

Larry Hisle collected a double and two singles, scored two runs and drove in another to spark the Twins while Bobby Darwin drilled his 14th homer.

Kansas City's victory behind the nine-hit pitching of Dick Drago and Gene Garber was the Royals' fifth in a row. Coupled with Oakland's loss, it moved the Royals one game ahead of the A's and put them 14 games over .500 for the first time in the club's five-year history.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees took a 10-0 drubbing by the Boston Red Sox, the Cleveland Indians blanked the Baltimore Orioles 6-0, the Milwaukee Brewers cooled off the Detroit Tigers 6-3 and the California Angels edged the Texas Rangers 3-2.

Redskins Face Detroit Lions In Exhibition

By ANDY LIPPMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
George Allen says he's out to win tonight when the Washington Redskins host the Detroit Lions. But the Redskin coach is not about to do anything reckless like risking last year's most valuable player, Larry Brown.

As was done last year, except toward the end of the National Football preseason, Brown will be on the sidelines, but Duane Thomas, whose running abilities most Redskins fans have only heard about, will be on display.

With a couple of exceptions, the Redskins starting lineup will be the same as the team that lost last year's Super Bowl to Miami 14-7.

Roger Staubach will be getting the nod in Dallas' game tonight against the Los Angeles Rams. Coach Tom Landry said Staubach would give way in the second half to Jack Concannon. There is also a chance that Craig Morton, whose arrival at the Cowboy camp was delayed because of a contract dispute, might see action.

Houston hopes the same combination will click twice when they clash with the New York Jets tonight. Dan Pastorini will oppose the Jets' star Joe Namath, in the same duel which produced the Oilers only victory last season.

In Saturday games, Miami hosts Cincinnati, Baltimore is at Pittsburgh, New Orleans is at Kansas City, Chicago faces Green Bay at Milwaukee, the New York Giants are at San Diego, and Buffalo plays Philadelphia at Jacksonville, Fla.

Oakland is at New England Sunday while San Francisco plays at Cleveland Monday.

The Oilers made two trades Thursday—sending rookie wide receiver Edesel Garrison to the Los Angeles Rams for an undisclosed draft choice and acquiring running back Eddie Richardson from New York for an eighth round 1974 draft choice.

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram said three veterans are definitely out of his team's opening game. Guard Moorman, wide receiver Otis Taylor and left cornerback Jim Marsalis are all definitely going to be out and the status of defensive tackle Buck Buchanan and center Jack Rudnay is still not known.

Running back Eddie Ray is being fined $100 each day he remains absent from the camp of the Atlanta Falcons, according to coach Norm Van Brocklin. The Falcon coach hinted he did not expect the former Louisiana State University star to show up at pre-season camp.

Two rookie centers joined the St. Louis Cardinals at their training camp. Tom Brahaney, a 6-foot-2, 240-pound lineman was on the field an hour after signing his contract. Mike Irons came from Washington for the $20,000 waiver price.

Secretariat Favored In Whitney

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Secretariat, the King of the turf world, puts his regal presence on display in the $50,000-added Whitney Stakes at historic Saratoga race track Saturday.

Already a legend in his own time, the 3-year-old Meadow Stable colt will be competing against older horses for the first time. No matter, he is expected to win and join the equine millionaire's club. The first Triple Crown winner in a quarter of a century has earned $970,242 in his 16 career starts.

The appearance of Secretariat in the Whitney will be nationally televised over the CBS network.

The popularity of Secretariat seems certain to attract a record crowd of 30,000 to the century-old Saratoga track. And the King is ready for the 1½-mile test against a field likely to include True Knight, Onion, Tri Jet, West Coast Scout, Anno and Rule by Reason.

"All is well with the colt," said trainer Lucien Laurin after the big son of Bold Ruler had worked an easy half-mile in 48 seconds before a record early morning Thursday turnout of 5,000.

"He knows he's King," said Mrs. John Tweedy, who owns the Big Horse syndicated for $6,080,000.

Rookie Finds Grid Defense Challenging

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns rookie linebacker Jim Romaniszyn recently learned to respect the defensive side of football. Romaniszyn spent his entire college career as a running back at Edinboro State College in Edinboro, Pa.

"I never realized the problems that defensesmen have," said the 21-year-old rookie, after spending four weeks with the Browns.

"When I ran in college the quarterback called the play and I ran it," he said. "Now as a defensive linebacker I've got to think more. Defense is an entirely different game than offense. You can't just react. You've always got a different assignment."

Romaniszyn reported to the Browns' rookie spring session at 224-pounds, seven pounds over his normal weight. "They thought I was out of shape," he said. "After they saw how fast I ran the mile they decided I'd make a good linebacker because of my weight."

Romaniszyn is happy in the linebacker spot because he has a better chance of making the team. The Browns have a lot of depth in running backs.

Piranhas Drop Swim Title To Lancaster Club

The Circleville "Piranha" swim team came up with a great effort but dropped a 275-265 decision to Lancaster Country Club in the Mt. Pleasant Swim League championship meet Thursday in the winners pool.

"It was nip and tuck all the way," Circleville Coach Jim Shea stated. "Neither team was able to grab a commanding lead and with eight events to go we were four points ahead.

"Our problem seemed to be in the relay races where we won only eight of 18 races," Shea commented. "We had hoped to take 10 or 12 relay which would have made a difference in the outcome. 'I hate losing the championship," Shea said, "and so do the kids. I can't say our swimmers did not do their best because they did and I'm proud of them. They did a good job and were just beaten by a better team. Next year it will be a different story," Shea concluded.

In the individual events, the Piranhas captured 22 of the 46 races. Double winners for Circleville were: K. Harker, C. Hughes, S. Penn, N. Moore, D. Lintnes and J. L. Arledge.

Winning single events for the Piranhas were: K. Churchill, M. McCrady, J. Harker, D. Resler, M. Romero, S. Sackinger, C. Sparks, M. Hutchinson, M. A. Cairns and E. Romero.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is good for working at those long-range plans that require a considerable amount of study, thought and planning, in which you can reduce your ideas to a working success. Tonight finds you overly eager to produce results of a practical nature, so be sure to refrain from being too rambunctious.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Fine morning for talking over with partners where your operations are headed. Later get busy on the actual work involved. Do what mate expects of you, even if you feel imposed upon. Think.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure you know how to get all those duties behind you early, and then you have time to be with important associates later. Buy clothing you need. Improve your health by proper treatments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can make this a fine morning at whatever you like best to do and improve relations with mate, but work should be relegated to evening. Creativity is the keynote during the day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Morning should be spent taking care of needs of kin, but then be off to entertainment later in the day. Begin a new upstart early in the a.m. in all of your affairs, too. Take it easy in p.m.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get into beauty treatments and shopping for apparel you need in the a.m., but evening should be spent happily at home. Keep busy writing letters. Don't forget to do your marketing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get your property improved during the a.m. and do errands, but later be happy with good friends. Plan how to carry on with those practical affairs you have in mind. Avoid one who gossips.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to spend the day as you please, especially where personal matters are concerned, but take care tonight not to spend lavishly. Ask a friend to go with you to some social matter of importance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can get the information you require by going to right sources today. Daytime intuition works fine, but not in p.m. Don't argue with mate over a matter of opinion. Maintain harmony.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Joining with good friends during day is fine and brings good results; taking in the nightclubs tonight is okay. Have a good talk with a close friend. Make excellent plans for the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Attending to public affairs during day is wise and gets you excellent results. You can then enjoy social matters in p.m. that are vital. Push your finest ambitions in early p.m. Do not be discourteous with others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Open your mind to new outlets that can give you excellent benefits, and by p.m. you get public acclaim desired. Being alert to progress is wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you get bills paid and other responsibilities handled during day. Seek new outlets in p.m. that revitalize you. Try to be more cooperative with an associate during daytime.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people with a fine, inventive mind, who should have lessons in psychology so that dealing with others can prove very successful, pleasing. Teach to stand up for own rights early, or others could take advantage of him or her because of this offspring's sheer innocence, trusting too much, or wanting to be so cooperative the self is denied.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Millionaire Has Garden Atop Apartment Building

NEW YORK (AP) — The corn is as high as the Green Giant's eye in Stewart Mott's garden and the tomato plants stacked on his penthouse roof are a story higher.

Mott, heir to a fortune of General Motors stock, obviously doesn't need to grow vegetables outside the 14th-floor Park Avenue apartment to supply his food. But he likes things fresh.

And so the terrace and roof are filled with planters and containers of all shapes and sizes growing everything from artichokes to zucchini, wax beans to sweet potatoes and apples to grapes.

Given the limited space—there are about 3,500 square feet on the terrace and roof combined—Mott has made the most of it. Some 2,000 square feet, or about one-twentieth of an acre, is under cultivation.

"The object is to have absolutely fresh vegetables all the time," says Mott, 35, whose father was the late auto industry pioneer Charles Stewart Mott.

Growing up on the family's 65-acre estate, Applewood, in Flint, Mich.,

there was always fresh produce. He recalls some arduous summer work hoeing vegetables for 5 cents an hour.

When he moved into the penthouse in 1966 he limited his gardening to caring for a few shrubs left by a previous tenant. But in 1971 he took a "sabbatical" from his regular pursuits and began the garden.

Strong young assistants helped haul 80 tons of topsoil, peat moss and humus from the back elevator to the containers, which range from jars to metal and wood planters to a worn auto tire.

Quadruplets Well; Now 5 Weeks Old

GIFU, Japan (AP) — Quadruplets born to the 23-year-old wife of a local farmer are now five weeks old and getting along fine, hospital authorities reported today.

The boy and three girls were born prematurely to Misao Hachiya on June 26.

"I gradually realized it must be the most complete penthouse garden in the city," said Mott in an interview. "Obviously we don't have a wheat field but just about everything else."

In all there are 250 varieties of vegetables and 200 kinds of decorative house plants.

"We could survive the year on what we grow here if we put in more potatoes and canned and froze things," said Mott.
